New My First Black & White Puppets

We are delighted to introduce these interactive puppets as the latest addition to our growing Baby collection and the newest arrival to our ever-popular My First Puppets range. New born babies have limited color perception so can primarily only see Black & White due to their undeveloped eyes. Babies are naturally drawn to high-contrast Black & White patterns, which stand out in their blurry world, capturing attention and aiding focus, which is where our new puppets come in! In beautiful contrasting designs, complete with their own individual patterns on their tummies, these puppets stimulate the senses and are ideal for newborns. Suitable from birth, they are made from super soft materials tested to the highest safety standards. Average height - 210mm
